

SOUTHEAST & CARIBBEAN
DISASTER RESILIENCE
PARTNERSHIP

WHO WE ARE

Primary network for professionals located in the Southeast United States and Caribbean territories working in the following fields:

- Emergency management
- Climate adaptation
- Disaster preparedness, recovery, and resilience

15 Advisory Board Members

Members from 80+ Organizations

WHAT WE DO

- Share information and best practices on critical and emerging recovery and resilience topics through virtual meetings
- Build connections among sectors and geographies through in-person convenings
- Coordinate multi-sectoral outreach and engagement
- Publish white papers on resilience and recovery
- Connect partners with the expertise, experience, and professional networks of the SCDRP Advisory Board and Members

CONTACT US

Heather McCarthy, Executive Director
Jacksonville, Florida

scdrp@secoora.org

linkedin.com/company/scdrp

@SCDRP_Resilient

<https://www.scdrp.secoora.org/>

facebook.com/scdrp

Capabilities Statement

VISION AND MISSION

Communities in the U.S. Southeast and Caribbean will be more resilient to climate change, natural hazards and disasters, lessening the intensity and duration of the disruption to society.

Serve as primary network for professionals and organizations in emergency management, climate adaptation, and disaster recovery.

WHAT WE WANT TO DO

- Transfer knowledge of successful projects and programs across regional boundaries
- Establish shared goals and priorities for building preparedness and resilience
- Organize and facilitate regional coordination events and stakeholder meetings
- Increase engagement across geographies and sectors, especially under-resourced and Spanish-speaking populations
- Develop the next generation of resilience and recovery professionals